COAL BY RIVER AND BY RAILROAD.—A COMPARISON.—The present winter has been one of unexampled severity. It has come upon us unprepared. It has filled with terror the hovels of the poor. It has brought suffering into the palaces of the rich. The work-shops have been closed at its approach. Its icy breath has been made more piercing by want of fuel.

Who shall say that He, who "moves in a mysterious way," may not have sent this winter upon us to awaken us to a sense of our real condition? We have lumbered for years upon the verge of a precipice. The river that laves our wharves is treacherous. It has often threatened our city with ruin by failing to supply us with the necessary quantity of coal. The crisis has come at last. Were it not for the railroads that now bring us wood, our condition would be desperate. We know too that those railroads were not built for this purpose. They have only proved to be fortunate sources of partial and temporary relief.

If a stranger were to pass through our city now and see its manufactories all closed and its inhabitants shivering over little fires, and were to be informed that there are inexhaustible coal mines owned by an incorporated company within 75 miles of our city; and that this company proposed to connect the city by railroad with the coal mines if the city would aid them in a sum sufficient to buy the iron for 15 or 20 miles of the road—what would such a stranger say, if our city refused the aid? Would he not say that we were not only unwise, but that we were deeply culpable for depending upon the river for our fuel when that river is but another name for ice and sand-bars? Would he not say that we were blind to our dearest interests in so long depending on the river, and that such dependence was the obstacle to all our prosperity and always would be the bane? And would he not add that there is a mountain of negligence, nay, almost of guilt resting upon those who can prevent such a state of things? Let us do it? Those who know the extent of the coal fields within our reach in Grayson county and have the means of connecting our city with them by a never failing railroad, and yet compel those, who cannot help themselves, to depend upon a river which never has and never will be a reliable source of supply, are deeply responsible for their neglect.

No one who has observed the condition of the Ohio river for a series of years and noted the frequent calamities it has brought upon our people can doubt for a moment the necessity of looking to a more reliable source for our fuel. No surer way of oppressing our poor population can be resorted to than to depend exclusively upon that river for our supply of coal. No policy more dangerous to our manufacturing interests could be adopted. No surer mode of retarding the progress of our city could be pursued.

We must have our coal from a source not subject to the casualties of the river. No city can become great that occupies our locality and pursues our past policy. Our supply of coal is a monopoly controlled by ice and sand-bars. Monopolies are tolerable only when they supply us with what we want even at exorbitant rates. But, when they both exert and fail to supply, the sooner they are broken up the better.

There are many of our citizens who have the idea in their minds that coal cannot be transported by railway so as to compete with river navigation. It might be a sufficient answer to all such arguments to reply that we don't care whether a railroad will compete with the river or not, provided it furnishes us with coal when we want it. We do not propose to dam up the river when we build a railroad. Let each mode of bringing coal take care of itself. We will buy of the river when it suits us and of the railroad when that suits us better. We shall at least have two sources of supply, and coal will thus be made cheaper and more plentiful.

But those who think that railroads cannot compete with rivers are entirely mistaken. They have formed their opinions from erroneous or exaggerated data, furnished principally by engineers in their estimates for new railroad projects. These knights of the chain and compass take particular care at such times to convince stockholders that the freight upon the road will pay good dividends, and, of course, to do this they put the freight tariff at the highest figure. They would make a ton of ordinary merchandise cost thirty or forty cents per mile, and leave the inference to be drawn that a ton of coal would cost the same, when, in fact, coal can be transported cheaper than almost anything else. The proof lies in the fact that all the railroads which make a business of carrying coal charge for it less than for almost any other kind of freight. The first engineer of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, in his report for 1854, gave us a table of profits to be derived from the freights upon the road and estimated the cost at $4 per ton for transporting cotton, $5 per ton for rope and bagging, $5 per ton for pork, $4 per ton for flour, $7 50 per ton for whisky, $5 50 per ton for tobacco, $9 per ton for live stock, and $6 per ton for merchandise in general. (See page 132.) At such prices as these it would not be difficult to show that coal can be transported by railroad so as to compete with the river, and it must be admitted that such charges would yield a handsome revenue for the road. But we take the ground that railroads are built for us instead of our being made for railroads. They are nothing but wood and iron, and they must minister to our necessities instead of our adapting ourselves to them.

Let us compare the cost of coal by river with that by railroad transportation and see from reliable data how the matter stands. The cost of digging coal from the Pittsburgh mines may be set down at two cents per bushel. It will require half a cent more per bushel to deliver the coal. The privilege of mining to be paid to the owner of the lands will be half a cent more. Allow another half cent for contingencies, and we have the coal in boats at the river at a cost of three and half cents per bushel. A pair of coal-boats to bring the coal to Louisville will cost $600. The outfit for these boats cost $200 more. Fourteen men, at $25 each, are required to bring the boats to Louisville, making the sum of $350. The pilot will cost $150 and provisions $75. A pair of boats will therefore cost $1375, and they will contain 25,000 bushels of coal. It is easy to estimate how much this is per bushel. It amounts to five and one-half cents as the cost of the transportation of each bushel of coal. Add this five and one-half cents to the three and one-half which it costs to get the coal into the boats and we have nine cents as the cost of each bushel of coal that is brought from Pittsburgh to our market by the river. If from this cost be deducted the price at which the boats and lines are sold it would not reduce the cost more than half a mill per bushel, which may really be regarded as nothing.

We understand that a company owning coal lands in Grayson county, styled the "State Mining, Manufacturing, and Building Company," have proposed to build a branch road from the Louisville and Nashville road if the city will lend them her aid in a sum sufficient to buy the iron for fifteen or twenty miles of road. When the company shall have built their road, branching from the Louisville and Nashville road at a point 55 or 60 miles from Louisville, so that the whole distance for transporting the coal will be about 75 miles, what will it cost them to bring coal from the mines of this company in Grayson county over 75 miles of railroad and deliver it at the depot in Louisville?

The regular rate of tonnage for coal upon the Baltimore and Ohio railroad is about six-tenths of a mill per bushel for each mile. We do not see why our road cannot bring us coal at the same rate. The Philadelphia and Reading road transports coal at a much less rate and makes money by it. At this rate, it would cost four and one-half cents per bushel to bring the Grayson county coal over 75 miles of railroad. This would be one cent per bushel less than it costs to bring it here by the river, as before shown. But if this company should build their road they would no doubt be able to make a contract with the Louisville and Nashville road for the privilege of running a freight train over their road once per day for a fixed sum per year. This of course would reduce the price very considerably. In any event, if this company should make the fifteen miles of railroad to connect the coal lands of Grayson with the L. and N. road, they would own this 15 miles of road, which would leave only 55 miles of the L. and N. road over which to transport their coal. This would reduce the cost per bushel to three and one-third cents. Allow then the same rates for mining and delivery which are paid at the Pittsburgh mines, and we have coal from Grayson county to cost six and five-sixths of a cent per bushel, delivered at the depot in the city of Louisville. We will call it six and one-half cents per bushel, and this we think will cover all the costs of the coal brought from Grayson county and delivered at our depot in this city. It would, therefore, cost two and a half cents less per bushel brought here by railroad than by river.

Does not this look like competing with the river? In this calculation we suppose the river to be always navigable and that no boats will ever be lost; a supposition which we know to be without foundation, and the opposite of which we experience almost every year by the exorbitant prices we pay for coal when the river is low, or locked with ice, or when our coal merchants have lost boats and been compelled to make up their losses by increasing the price of coal they have to sell us.

All that a company who shall build this branch road can get for their coal over 6½ cents per bushel would be profit on the investment. Let us suppose that the coal lands of this company have cost them $500,000 and that this is the value they put upon them and the basis upon which their stock is issued, and that they will sell their coal in Louisville at ten cents per bushel. Louisville consumes from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 of bushels of coal per year, and if this company only supplied of this quantity 1,500,000 bushels at a cost to them of 6½ cents per bushel, if sold at 10 cents, the profit would be 3½ cents per bushel. This would make the sum of $52,500, which would be equal to ten and one-half per cent on the capital invested.

If we suppose that this company supplied three millions of bushels, the per cent. on the capital invested would be twenty-one per cent. This would be a handsome dividend to go among the stockholders.

ers, after deducting from it all expenses; and, if they wanted to compete with the river and supply the entire market, all the stockholders would have to do would be to agree to sell coal at 8½ cents per bushel and make twelve per cent. on the capital invested instead of twenty-one per cent. The river would thus act as a check upon the railroad, or vice versa, the railroad would be a check on the river monopoly. Thus coal would be made always plentiful in our market at a very low and uniform rate.

In the calculations we have made with regard to the cost per bushel of transporting coal we have assumed 2,000 pounds as a ton and allowed only 25 bushels of coal to the ton. The truth is, however, there are more pounds and more bushels in a ton of coal, but we wish to be under the real cost instead of beyond it.

If the facts and calculations we have given are correct, there can be no doubt of the propriety of the city lending her aid to the State Mining, Manufacturing, and Building Company for the construction of this road. It would not cost the city in any event over $250,000, and this would only be in her credit. The company will take the bonds of the city at thirty years and mortgage their road to secure the payment of the annual interest and the principal at maturity. We understand that the company do not ask the delivery of the bonds until their branch road is graded and bridged ready for the iron, nor until the city authorities are satisfied that there is coal on the lands of this company to justify the construction of the branch road. Nothing can be fairer than this proposition, and we think the city should at once accede to it. Before the ordinance appropriating the money to buy the iron will be voted on by the people, a geological survey of the lands of the company may be made to determine whether or not the coal is there in quantities sufficient to justify the enterprise.

We hope that the "State Mining, Manufacturing, and Building Company," if they have not already done so, will make a direct proposition to the City Council for the loan of the city bonds in a sum sufficient to buy the iron for the road. We have no doubt that the Council will pass an ordinance making the appropriation and that the people will vote for it by an overwhelming majority. We are all weary of the river and willing to embark in any reasonable enterprise to place us beyond the contingencies of ice and sand-bars. Our sufferings this winter, both physically and commercially, will not soon be forgotten.

We owe it to our poor population, we owe it to our manufacturing interests, and we owe it to ourselves to secure for the future a constant supply of fuel at a cheap and uniform rate. This can be effected only by railroad connection with some one of the coal fields around us. The coal lands of this company are the nearest to us, and the road they propose to build is by far the cheapest that we can possibly get. In fact, this road will cost the city nothing, except the loan of her credit. Ample security may be given to pay the interest on the bonds of the city, and also to liquidate the principal at maturity. We know of no railroad that can be built cheaper than this, to insure us a constant supply of coal at a cheap and uniform rate.

These lines, which are unquestionably very fine, whatever may be thought of the subject, come to us from a girl, who subscribes herself our "little friend," and says that this is about her first attempt at writing for publication. We will thank our "little friend" to give us her name:

TO GEO. D. PRENTICE.

Thou art a scholar. From one, thou didst find
The waters running from the crystal fount
Of knowledge, pure as snow-lakes and more bright
Than diamonds, as all beaded they dropped down
Clear-purpling from the brim. Thou didst remain
Beneath the spray which drenched thee around
Until thy bright locks with the droppings hung
And thy pure brow shone in the radiance.
It was thy glorious fancy lured thee there
And bade thee look on the surface gaze and then
Taste with deep ecstasy the liquid blue
From whose unfathomable depths thou shouldst
Hast drank deep draughts of high and priceless worth.

Thou art a poet, and thy thrilling voice
Its deep-toned eloquence has sounded o'er
Our native land, has echoed through those high
Brave hearts that cling to country, home, and thee.
It swept across the flowery torrid clime,
It penetrated to the south's warm heart,
It dimpled o'er the purple seas until
It tracked its bright and glorious way along
The icy Northern vales and reached the cold
Norwegian's heart and melted it like ours.

Thou art a patriot! Noble, honored one,
Hast thou striven onward through the maddening waves
That beat so wildly on our shores. Oh how Thy mighty heart was tried when fearful groans
Rose up from dying laws! Didst thou despair
Settle in thy keen eye? did thy nerved arm
Falter e'en for a moment? No, ah no!
Thou didst stand more firmly in thy might!

Will honor stand abashed, and justice veiled
Her smiling face from thee? Shall Fame the while Remain unheard, or Truth refuse to speak?
No, thy name beams on temples reared so high
That angels perch thereon on temples bright
Whose deep foundations have been laid in hearts
That oft have throbbled for many noblest ones,
But now throbbled chiefly, glorious one, for thee.
HASKINVILLE, Jan. 12.

SAD NEWS FROM NICARAGUA.—The private intelligence that reaches us from the seat of war in Nicaragua is even more distressing than that we receive through the papers. We have seen a letter from E. E. Scales, son of Dr. Scales, who states that out of the large and gallant party which left this city last June under the command of Col. Allen, only eight remain alive. George Burnett, a very estimable and well known young man, died on the afternoon of the day the letter was written—December 20. Worden Pope was also dead. The writer further states that he had not changed his clothing for four months, and that he and all his comrades were covered with vermin. A change of raiment was promised them on the 1st of January, but there were no prospects of the promises being fulfilled.

The Hon. Andrew Stevenson, of Virginia, formerly our Minister at the Court of St. James and Speaker of the House of Representatives for a number of years, died last Thursday. He was a man of fine talents, and a Virginia gentleman throughout. Mr. S. was the father of Col. John W. Stevenson of this State.

In the Ohio Legislature, a resolution to prevent the members chewing tobacco in the State House has been ex-cessu by a large majority.

THE STUDIO OF MR. GANTER.—At the request of a friend, whose requests we rarely, if ever, slight, we called at Mr. Ganter's studio, on Saturday last, to look upon a gem of art from the easel of that artist, upon which great numbers of the people of Louisville have gazed with admiration. This beautiful specimen of a glorious art is a full length portrait of one of the loveliest women of this city—one whose graces of person are even surpassed by her graces of intelligent goodness in all its diversified forms. The artist has not only portrayed the features of this lady upon his canvas, but has caught the very spirit of her soul, and it breathes a triumph of genius. Mr. Ganter, with all of his numerous friends, has good reason to feel proud of this achievement of his art, for it is full of merit of the highest kind. We cordially congratulate this young and meritorious artist upon his success. He has never enjoyed the advantage of visiting those regions, where—

"Every tower and wall is whitened
With the statue's marble light,
And the walls are starred with pictures
From the ancient ages of night."
but, as a true artist, Mr. Ganter has shown that he is one

— "on whom the love of beauty
Hath descended to the heart."

In addition to the rare and beautiful work of which we have spoken, Mr. Ganter's studio exhibits abundant specimens of his skill which show that the people of Louisville have not been negligent of his merits. One of these specimens is a portrait of a distinguished citizen of Louisiana, who spends his summers in Louisville and in its vicinity. There were unusual difficulties to overcome in painting this portrait, but the success is perfect.

We cheerfully pay this tribute to the artist not to help him, for he has orders enough now to tax all his powers for many months to come, but as a recognition of his merit justly due to him.

CRIME AND SUICIDE IN INDIANA.—Mr. John Myers, of Allen county, was stopped by two ruffians when within three-quarters of a mile of his house, who demanded his gold watch, which they forcibly took from him; then demanded his money, which they abstracted from his pocket, together with his port-manteau; then took his dress and overcoat, and before letting him go stabbed him in the left breast, evidently aiming to kill, but the point of the knife entered the padding of his vest, was arrested when it reached the skin, and glanced down to the lower rib, entering about three-quarters of an inch without doing him fatal injury.

The Randolph County Journal gives the particulars of a fatal affray that took place in Marion, Grant county, about two weeks ago. It appears that two men, named Davis and Shipley, the former a chair-maker and the latter a carpenter, got into a dispute relative to a settlement, during which Shipley struck Davis and knocked him down. As Davis rose again to his feet, he seized a chisel which lay on a bench near by, and striking at Shipley over his shoulder, stabbed him to the heart, killing him instantly. The dispute arose about the difference in settlement of twenty-five cents.

The Connorsville Times says that on Monday morning of last week James Kellum, who resided near that place, committed suicide by taking strychnine. Mr. K. had been married but a short time, and had recently united himself with the Presbyterian church. The cause of his self-murder is unknown.

THE SAD SUICIDE OF A WIFE.—On Monday evening last Mr. Parker Eaton, of Woburn, Mass., a worthy and much respected citizen, returned from his afternoon's work and found that his house was dark, and he heard his little child, about a year old, crying quite loud. He went into the house and struck a light, when a sad sight met his eyes. The dead body of his wife, with her throat cut and covered with blood, was lying upon the floor, and near it his little child, also covered with blood. He immediately called for help, and the neighbors came in. The shock to the husband and father was so great as to unsettle his reason.

The instrument with which the deed was committed was a razor, which was found upon the mantel piece covered with blood. It appears that the unfortunate woman stood on or near the stove when she inflicted the wound—that she then put the razor on the mantel piece, went to the window, on which there are marks of blood, and tried to open it. No cause is assigned for the act. It is said that she had of late been somewhat depressed in spirits, but not so much as to excite any suspicion.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT NEWS.

The ice above has not yet given away, but it cannot hold out much longer. The river yesterday was rising pretty fast. There were 5½ feet water in the canal last evening. Our dispatches from Cincinnati last night reports it rising there at the rate of an inch per hour. The weather has every appearance of rain.

The splendid steamer Fanny Bullitt, Capt. Dunham, will leave for New Orleans on the opening of navigation.

The steamer R. J. Ward, Capt. Silas F. Miller, which has few equals for magnificence of accommodations, and the A. L. Shotwell, Capt. Elliott, one of the swiftest boats afloat, are advertised to leave on Saturday.

THE CONCERT OF BERTINI.—This accomplished vocalist was greeted last evening by a very appreciative audience at Mozart Hall. She sung with great power and effect, and she was particularly attractive in her wonderful imitative variations of the voice. None who heard Bertini could fail being impressed with her natural talents, which if cultivated might place her in the front rank of musical artists.

The execution of several pieces upon the guitar by Mr. Hernandez elicited very just applause. We have never seen any one who possesses so complete a mastery over this delightful instrument.

DROWNING A DEAD NEGRO.—The Abingdon Virginian understands that a man from Bristol was committed to the jail in that place on Saturday, for drowning a dead negro. In other words, the charge is, that a trader, losing a negro child, and not having time to stop and bury it, employed the accused to do so, who, instead of performing his duty according to contract, nailed the child up in a box and threw it in the creek near Bristol, where it was subsequently found.

A prisoner in the Michigan penitentiary, sentenced to solitary confinement, was found dead in his cell on the morning of the 11th. A steam pipe passing through the cell to warm it, had burst, and, as no cry for help could be heard by the keeper, to save himself from being cooked to death, the poor man cut his throat.

We see in the New York Herald a list of the correspondents of the leading papers in the country. Mr. F. C. Triplett is published as the correspondent of the Louisville Journal. We beg leave to state that Mr. Triplett has no connection whatever with this office, in any capacity.

A committee from the Senate of Indiana has been in Jeffersonville for some days examining into the condition of the State penitentiary at that place.

Hon. Preston King, an old fashioned Free Soil Democrat, has been elected to the U. S. Senate from New York.

A correspondent of the Columbus (O.) Statesman says that the fruit buds in that section have been uninjured by the severe cold weather.

ARMY MOVEMENTS IN FLORIDA.—The Palaska Democrat of the 21st ult. says:

We were permitted to see orders issued by Gen. Harney and transmitted to the commanders of companies. The orders were to the effect that each company should engage in active duty in scouting the country for fifty miles around their respective stations. If an Indian sign was discovered, it should be pursued up to the capture or extermination of the Indians. Notice of any Indian discovery should be communicated promptly to head quarters. It is promised that the soldiers shall be supplied with all the necessary munitions of war. It is ordered that the frontier settlements must be protected from the Indians.

THIRTY-FOURTH CONGRESS—SECOND SESSION
Tuesday's Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.

Senate.—Mr. Wilson introduced a bill to secure to actual settlers the sections of public lands reserved in the grants made to States for railroads. It provides that the actual settlers shall take the reserved sections, being about eleven millions of acres, at $2 50 per acre, in compliance with the pre-emption act of 1811.

House.—The House proceeded to the consideration of the special order of the day, being business relative to the District of Columbia.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.

Neither branch of Congress transacted any business of general importance.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3.

Dates have been received from Vera Cruz to the 20th. It is reported that Soto retires from the Ministry. Rumors are current of a new insurrection at Puebla. San Luis affairs are unchanged.

ALBANY, Jan. 3.

In the Senate this morning, Preston King was elected United States Senator on the part of the Senate. The vote stood: King, 14; Headley, K. N., 9; Sickles, Dem., 1.
The House concurred in the election by a large majority.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.

The United States Treasurer reports the net amount subject to draft on the 26th ult. to be $21,496,881.

Mr. Buchanan left this city this morning, accompanied by twenty or more political friends.

The committee of ways and means of the House will make a favorable report on the Senate submarine telegraph bill.

The House post office committee have postponed further action on the ocean mail service until Thursday.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 3.

Mr. Peabody had a grand reception last night from the Mayor and city authorities and members of the Maryland Institute. Several thousand persons participated in the ceremonies, which closed with a banquet.

No mail has been received to-day from the south or west.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.

Senate went into executive session at 1 o'clock to-day, Mr. Mason saying that there was imperative necessity for doing so immediately.

The Central American question was debated three hours, and the Senate adjourned without coming to a conclusion on the subject.

LANCASTER, Jan. 3.

At the city election Turnermann, Democratic candidate for Mayor, has 12 majority over all other candidates. The vote was as follows: Turnermann, Democrat, 1,117; Burrow, Independent, 504; White, citizens' candidate, 341; Huber, Old-line Whig, 230.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.

J. R. Sweeney has returned, and signified his readiness to the investigating committee again to appear before them, and suggest that those persons who are implicated by his testimony, if there are any such, and they desire it, be afforded an opportunity to cross-examine him in presence of the committee. Simonton, having nearly recovered from severe sickness, will probably be brought before the committee to-morrow.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 3.

About half-past 5 o'clock this afternoon the ice started and moved a couple of hundred yards, in a solid body, and stopped. The Grace Darling and Oceana broke from their moorings and were forced some ninety feet into the river, and now occupy a dangerous position in case the ice should start again. No serious damage is yet ascertained.

The weather is extremely mild with very warm south wind and appearance of rain. The ice is melting rapidly. A general break up is momentarily expected.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 3, P. M.

Weather mild and cloudy. River unchanged.

WHEELING, Feb. 3, P. M.

River about 7½ feet and stationary. Weather to-night quite mild and every appearance of rain. It has thawed considerably to-day.

HOW IS IT
EVERYBODY wants one of TROXEL'S beautiful AM-BROTYPE. Some time ago, the artist, Daniel Troxel, having made a name for himself by his public art, attracted considerable attention, but now they have ascertained how easily it is to be humbugged even by a name, as all other pictures made on glass, and painted in the style of Troxel's, are not hermetically sealed, not so beautiful, and liable to fade.
Citizens and strangers are particularly invited to call before going elsewhere.
Instructions given in the art for $30.
Also, rights for sale to operate in Kentucky.

On and after the 15th inst., the price of the Bulletin will be 12 1/2 cents per week. The heavy expense of telegraphing, and the expense of publishing as much matter as we do in the Bulletin is a sufficient apology for increasing the price. It is hoped all in arrears will settle promptly with Mr. Barker, who is alone authorized to collect for the Bulletin and half-sheet Journal.

The gorge above this has not yet given away. The river is still rising, and the weather is warm and cloudy. At Portland the river fell one foot in one hour this morning, doubtless caused by the giving away of a gorge below, and then rose again several inches.
A private dispatch from Cincinnati states that the river has risen there 7 feet altogether, which is a rise of two feet since yesterday. It will be seen from our dispatch that the ice has not yet given away there.

A report was current this morning that a portion of the gorge at Grassy Flats had given way, and sunk the two boats laden with coal purchased by Messrs. Hyatt, Dravo, and Cornell about three weeks ago at 22 1/2 cents per bushel. They had taken out about 6,000 bushels. The loss to Messrs. Hyatt is about $3,000 and that to Messrs. Dravo and Cornell about the same amount.

Messrs. Benedict & Son received a dispatch from Capt. Spotts this morning, which stated that the officers and crew, as well as everything saved from the wreck of the Niagara, were on board the Woodford. Messrs. B. & S. also received a dispatch from Capt. Mather, of the Woodford, at Cairo, saying that the W. had arrived there. They were telegraphed to come up.

The Virginia.—Capt. Chas. F. Reynolds, the commander of this steamer, informs us that he will positively leave for New Orleans to-morrow evening.

LEAVENWORTH, IND., Feb. 2, 1857.
Eps. JOURNAL: The river is forced heavily at Big Bend, two miles below here; also at Amsterdam, five miles above. The ice between this place and Amsterdam is broken up, but cannot pass down on account of the gorge.
W. W. WHITTEN.

Adams' Express we have St. Louis papers of yesterday.

The news from China will be found very interesting.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS.—Wednesday, Feb. 4.—A long, tedious, and unprofitable session this morning, extending beyond the meridian hour, commencing with the case of Lucinda Hartley, who has been living with negroes for some time. Sent to the workhouse for two months.

Wm. A. Moore confessed judgment and was fined $50.

John Weaver, in order to prevent Ignatius Dilly from visiting and courting his daughter, had taken out a peace warrant, but, upon reflection, had it withdrawn.

The case of Peter Weiman, for taking the dead body of Patrick Gellany, was again investigated. Dr. D. W. Vandell and Dr. P. B. Scott testified that they had not seen the body since the death. An attachment was issued against E. Fuller, janitor of the University, commanding his attendance as a witness, and the case continued to Friday.

Myers Brityfelder, accused of robbing the store of Durkee, Heath, & Co., on the 7th of December, was arraigned. He had, a few nights after the robbery, called at Elvira Glover's with several bundles of silk and had promised all the girls in that establishment silk dresses. He had also shipped two or three trunks to Cincinnati, supposed to contain goods. The morning after the robbery, the accused entered the store of Durkee, Heath, & Co., and acted and spoke very suspiciously. Capt. Connelley, on Saturday.

Charles Barnwell had obtained a peace warrant against J. Valat. The latter had chased the former and two of his friends a half square on Monday. Valat says that Barnwell and a half dozen others have been annoying him, B. being armed with a large pair of shears. Both held to bail to keep the peace.

Gold Medal Piano-Fortes,
MANUFACTURED BY STEINWAY & SONS.
D. P. FAULDS, Sole Agent in Southwest, 539 Main street.
Just received from the manufacturer a splendid assortment of these justly celebrated instruments. They have been awarded the first prize gold medals at the Crystal Palace (American Institute Fair), New York, in 1853 and 1854, and also at the Maryland Institute, Baltimore, in competition with the best makers in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. Among the judges were the best musical talent in this country, including Messrs. Gottschalk, Mason, Volckmann, and others, who declare them to be the best square Piano-Fortes ever made in this country.
These instruments I fully warrant to stand in any climate. They can be had of me, with or without iron frame, at the manufacturers' prices.
Persons wishing a superb instrument should call and see those at my warerooms before purchasing elsewhere.

EVENING BULLETIN.

A FATAL AFFRAY.—A difficulty occurred at Hampden Sidney College on Tuesday evening, between two students, E. A. Langhorne, of Lynchburg, and a son of Dr. Edie, of Christianburg. They met the next morning in a passage of the college, and Edie was stabbed to the heart and died in a few minutes. Langhorne was arrested.

Rev. Mr. Kallach, of Boston, whose clerical delinquency we have noticed, has been examined by a committee of the leading clergyman of the Baptist Church in that city, and acquitted of the charges affecting his moral character. In the course of the examination, Mr. Kallach owned up to one offense, as follows:

In reply to questions, Mr. K. stated that he spoke of his friend as his lady—not at any time as his wife. He would say, if he omitted to state before, that he asked the landlord of the house for Bourbon whisky. He wished it understood that he did not claim to have taken it by prescription of any physician, but that he had heard it recommended as a remedy for weak lungs.

[Special Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] The Central American Treaty—Official and Semi-Official Organs—The Funeral, etc.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30, 1857.

I perceive that you have copied into the Journal a paragraph to the effect: "It is believed in Washington that the Dallas and Clarendon Treaty will not be taken up by the Senate till the special session of that body." As opposed to this "belief," I can certainly state that last week the Senate agreed to "take up" the treaty on the 28th inst., and would have done so had it not been for the interruption of business occasioned by the death of the Hon. Preston S. Brooks. The committee on Foreign Relations have made a favorable report upon the subject. It is, however, not certain that it will be ratified during the present session, as a two-thirds vote is necessary for that purpose, and as it is not thought expedient, pending the troubles in Central America, to take final action.

General Walker defeated, and a stable government established in Nicaragua, there would be no great difficulty in accomplishing the objects agreed upon by Great Britain and the United States. Under all the circumstances, it is the belief of astute Senators that months must pass before the treaty shall be fully consummated.

The proceedings consequent upon the death of the Hon. Preston S. Brooks attracted dense crowds to the Capitol. The solemn services were marked by Mr. Savage, of Tennessee, who seized the opportunity to justify the "scene" in the Senate chamber, the attack upon Mr. Sumner, and this conduct on his part produced so much excitement that many of the friends of Mr. Sumner abruptly left the hall and declined to go to the funeral. But their disgust was not exceeded by that of the immediate friends of the deceased. Mr. Savage, of Tennessee, volunteered this speech; he was not one of the chosen orators. Col. Orr and other South Carolina members privately obtained the consent of Savage that the offensive part of his speech should be omitted from print. I learn that the reporter of the Associated Press was requested to leave out the exceptional language, but duty forbade such an enunciation.

Colonel Savage, it may be recollected, joined the American party, two years ago, and made strong speeches in the councils of this District; but after he returned to Tennessee he took the stump as a full-blooded "anti-know-nothing"—a fire-eating Democrat; and triumphed over Gen. Cullom, the accomplished and noble-hearted Clerk of the House of Representatives. The speech of Savage is considered by everybody to be in character with his name.

In a former letter, I spoke of the anxiety, on the part of several politicians, to secure the patronage of the next administration for the support of a newspaper, as a tender to the "Washington Union," a print to occupy a position similar to that of the "Evening Star," which sheds occasional light on subjects which are considered beneath the dignity of the acknowledged organ. The editor of the latter is willing to "sell out" for twenty thousand dollars; but those who are seeking to secure the advertising, etc., from Mr. Buchanan act as if they intend to start new competitors, "bright and fair" from the fourth of March next.

Among the projectors of a new minor organ, or semi-official journal, is Major John P. Heise, once proprietor of the Nashville Union, afterwards a joint owner, with Father Ritchie, of the Washington Union, and lately connected with the New Orleans Delta; a gentleman intimately concerned with Nicaragua, and left here by Father Vigil (the Walker-Kivas minister) to attend to the affairs of that distracted country. The Major is enterprising, and imbued with the gospel of the dollar; he is not surprised if he were to outstrip his competitors in the race for the patronage.

As to the Union newspaper, no expense will be spared to make it interesting; and, from the programme, as already concluded, it will "reflect," more than any similar journal heretofore, the views and purposes of Mr. Buchanan's administration.

THE WEATHER AT THE SOUTH.—The weather has been the coldest known for twenty years at least. Besides the injury done upon the coast, the interior of the country has suffered an almost unparalleled loss of life from the intensity of the cold weather. As an example, we observe in the delayed Richmond and Petersburg papers not less than eight or ten instances in that vicinity where persons were either frozen to death or greatly injured. Of these, the following is an example, taken from a Richmond paper of last week:

Mr. Leander Baughan, a citizen of Hanover co., was found frozen to death on Sunday last, on the mountain road, twenty-four miles from Richmond. Two other persons, named Askew and Mills, and a little boy, son of the latter, who were in company, were nearly or quite frozen.

At Wilmington, N. C., on the 20th, it is stated that Cape Fear river was frozen over. At Norfolk the thermometer fell to 1 degree below zero on Friday, being about 9 degrees lower than anything before experienced in that warmly situated city. At Petersburg, Va., on the same day it was 10 degrees below zero, being an absolute unparalleled temperature in that quarter. In Columbus, Ga., the range was within or 8 degrees of zero; at Augusta on the same day (Monday) 6 degrees above zero; at Atlanta 2 degrees, and at Athens 3 degrees below zero, with the river frozen over and sleigh bells and skates in fashion. There was nine or ten inches of snow in the same vicinity. Ice formed at Columbus 2 inches thick. In Florida, Sunday and Monday (17th and 18th) were two of the coldest nights ever felt in Florida. Such at least is the experience of the oldest citizen of Tallahassee. The thermometer fell in some places to within 12 and at others to 10 degrees of zero. Slight snow in Quincy and St. Marks on Sunday.

Death of Marshal Radetzky.—The oldest military chieftain of distinction in the world just died in Italy. Count Joseph Radetzky, commander of the Austrian army in Italy, was born in Trebnitz, in Bohemia, 1766, and was thus over ninety years of age. His military life began in 1781, when he was appointed a cadet in a cavalry regiment, and has taken part in ever war in which Austria has been engaged from that time to the present. He figured under the Archduke Charles in all his battles with Napoleon. His commission as Major-General dates from the year 1801, fifty-six years ago. In 1809, after the battle of Erlangen, in which he distinguished himself, he was appointed field-marshal, lieutenant, and chief of a regiment of Hussars. He has held successively the Governorship of Ofen, of Olmutz, and of Lemburg, and in 1822 he was appointed Commander-General of the Lombardo-Venetian Kingdom.

Sad Accident.—Master Alfred Taylor, son of Breve Lieut. Col. Taylor, 1st Artillery, United States Army, was thrown from his horse, on Elizabeth st., and so injured that he died of his wounds.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY IN CALIFORNIA.—From the Columbia correspondent of San Joaquin Republican we extract the following:

A horrible tragedy was enacted in our town today, and would afford a thrilling narrative for a novelist. Love, jealousy, revenge, murder, and suicide are the conditions in this last bloody dish, and the details are so shocking, that albeit we are in this State accustomed to sanguinary transactions, yet this is so terrible that the particulars will hardly be believed. Within the past week the old public gambling-houses have been re-opened, and the vices of 1840 and 1850 flourish as largely as they did in those periods. To the attractions of music and minstrels are now added the pretty faces of lewd women, who seem to handle the cards as dexterously as their male synonyms. A few days since John Cardinell, formerly a resident of our town, returned with a very beautiful Castilian woman, and, together, opened a gaming-table. The woman had attractive features and good address, and consequently was very successful. On Friday last, a well-dressed, gentlemanly-looking Spaniard arrived in town in quest of this woman. He stated that formerly she was his mistress at Mokelumne Hill, but that subsequently he had married her. It appeared that they had been living at the hill during the last four years; that they were of the better class of their country people, and that at one time he was possessed of a considerable property.

The woman refused to return with her husband, and it seems their separation was finally agreed to. This morning she concluded she would return to Mokelumne Hill without the woman, and to entice him to do so, borrowed a sum of money sufficient for his fare from Cardinell. Instead of doing so, however, he went to a store and purchased a pistol, and had it well loaded. About 10 o'clock he proceeded to the residence of the woman, and found Cardinell absent, but a stranger present. His action betrayed no intention of murder. The spoke affectionately to her, reproved her for her lack of love, and said he would no longer be able to live with her, and that she should not live and be the mistress of another man. The woman replied to him that they were both poor, and that the step she had taken was necessary to procure her a livelihood. She had scarcely finished speaking when he pulled a pistol and fired at her breast, the ball taking effect below the left nipple. He looked at her a moment, and seemed to gloat over her agony. The persons present ran to give the alarm, but before they were enabled to do so, he again cocked his pistol, turned the muzzle to his own breast, and fired, the ball forcing his heart. He died almost instantly, but the woman is still lingering, although there is no chance for her recovery.

The excitement consequent upon the murder and suicide is intense, and the scene of the tragedy has been visited by hundreds. The coroner held an inquest this afternoon, and the jury found a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

[For the Louisville Journal.]

At a meeting of the Vestry of St. Paul's Church, held in the vestry room, February 2, 1857, upon reception of the letter of resignation of the Rev. J. S. Wallace as assistant minister, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Vestry of St. Paul's Church, in accepting the resignation of Rev. J. S. Wallace as assistant minister of this church, take the occasion to express their high satisfaction at the cordiality of our part relations with him, and their esteem for his valuable and efficient labors while connected with us.

Resolved, That upon the assumption on the part of Mr. Wallace of the duties of Rector in his new parish at St. Andrews, in this city, this Vestry assure him of their best wishes and prayers, that the blessing of the great Head of the Church may rest abundantly upon him personally and professionally.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to Rev. Mr. Wallace, signed by the Rector and the Secretary of the Vestry, and published in the papers of this city.

S. CAMPBELL, Secretary.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.—For the rapid cure of Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Asthma, and Consumption, is universally known as the best remedy ever yet discovered for every variety of Pulmonary disease. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. By its timely use many, nay almost all attacks of disease upon the lungs or throat, are arrested and thus are saved many thousands every year from a premature grave. No family should be without it, and those who do neglect to provide themselves with a remedy which wards off this dangerous class of diseases will have cause to deplore it when it is too late. Proofs of the surprising efficacy of the Cherry Pectoral need not be given to the American people—they have living proofs in every neighborhood. But those who wish to read the statements of those whose whole health has been restored, and whose lives have been saved by its use, will find them in my American Almanac, which the agent below named has to furnish gratis for every one.
